

material things which you see in this creation are things which will decay, which are bound to change. Truth is God. In the world, we experience truths of a relative nature.

Although 12 years have elapsed since the establishment of Dharmakshetra, having the chance of rising higher and higher in the manner now described, remaining stationary in the same position, you are feeling much disappointed. Perform your bhajans, perform your pujas, but when you enter society, recognise society as a form of God, recognise what exists as omnipresence in society and thereby acquire good qualities in serving society.

Dharmakshetra, 12-5-1981

Shesha Sai

Do not waste time in idle gossip; talk softly; talk as little as possible, talk sweet; serve all as brothers and sisters, with adoration to the Sai in them.

Divine Message

5 D

Dharmakshetra 1992

Devotion

The immense love for God is termed Bhakti or devotion. Love is God incarnate. You are but uniting love with love through the process of loving. You can realise God only by immersing yourself in the most cordial love of comradeship with Him. Devotion consists in developing the love of God in gradual stages. There is no better way in the world than loving God. This faith leads to self-surrender which blossoms into intense love and culminates in the fruit of God-realisation.

True devotion is to divert the mind and vision of man from material things and to transcend his selfishness as well as to surrender himself completely to the Supreme Lord and finally become one with Him.

Devotion to the Divine will give you bliss, prosperity and peace.